The Monitor's man in London will open the Institute of World Affairs next Tuesday in the University Auditorium at 8:15 P.M.

Artists Plan Larger Kiln

Plans are underway for the construction of a "big stove."

The "big stove" is a high-fire kiln to be used in the firing of ceramic projects.

According to the art department's new assistant instructor of ceramics, William Wold, construction of the kiln will begin within two months. The kiln, which he expects to cost approximately $750, will measure 12 cubic feet inside.

This 12 cubic feet is deceiving he said. The exterior of this "big stove" is much greater. You must have extremely thick walls because of the heat. The kiln is to be constructed of a heavy refractive material—plain, ordinary insulated brick. The kiln can accommodate up to 80 average size projects. An average size project measures 8 inches high and 4 inches in diameter.

Wold's intermediate and advanced students will work on the Operation "big stove" as a learning device.

Boot Grads Get New Assignments

Two 1965 graduates of the Bootstrap Program at the University of Omaha have received new assignments.

Serving as new executive officer for the Army at Camp Zama, Japan, is Lt. Col. Kent B. White.

The 25-year veteran of Army service received a bachelor of science degree in military science from OU this past year.

Major Ivan G. Worrell has been named information officer for the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky. He was assigned to Fort Campbell following duty as an intelligence officer at Fort Bragg, N.C. He was awarded a bachelor of general education degree during the summer.

Needy Students Can Work, Study

The College Work-Study Program is available for qualified Omaha University students.

The fall assignments are being made and there are "still a few openings," said Mrs. Yvonne Harsh, director, student placement Bureau.

The qualifications include: 1.) 16-21 age limit; 2.) full-time student; 3.) must meet economic need. More information can be obtained in Adm. 231.

Two projects are in operation off-campus at the present time with the YWCA and the City Parks and Recreation Dept.

Thirty-eight students worked in the summer program.

The students work 15 hours during school term and they can work full-time during the summer vacation.

William L. Stringer, London Bureau Chief of the Christian Science Monitor, will present his views on "Europe's Changing Pattern."

This 30-year Monitor veteran headed the London Bureau from 1947 to 1951. In February, 1965, Mr. Stringer once again took up the post of London Bureau Chief after heading the Washington Bureau for over a decade.

Mr. Stringer's travels have been world-wide. In recent years he visited some twenty countries with the specific purpose of asking prime ministers, presidents, and premiers to discuss with him the essential role each nation will play in the second half of the twentieth century. Mr. Stringer sought answers that would serve as a blueprint for the political and economic architecture of the future.

Born in upper New York state, Mr. Stringer was graduated from Colgate University with a Phi Beta Kappa key and a leaning toward law. However, after earning his law degree at the Harvard Law School, he decided to switch to journalism and soon thereafter joined the Monitor.

A member of the celebrated Gridiron Club of top newsmen, Mr. Stringer has also served as the President of the Overseas Writers Club in Washington and the moderator of a weekly Voice of America program, which is a panel discussion of top events by prominent journalists and is carried throughout the Voice of America's English-speaking service.

Manager Holds Business Class

Neil V. Bedell, audits and procedures manager of the Fairmont Foods Company, will be teaching a course in Systems and Procedures at Omaha University. It is sponsored by the Omaha Chapter of the Systems and Procedures Association.

The course will be taught from 7 to 9 on Wednesday nights. It starts October 6 and ends May 25. A fee of $90 is payable before the first class meeting and registration will be limited to 25 students.

Systems and Procedures is especially designed for persons involved with management, training and planning.

Pay Heed: Pay Fines

"The honeymoon is over."

This warning was made last Tuesday by Dean Donald Pflasterer, Dean of Student Personnel, regarding parking tickets which have been issued as warnings instead of fines.

"Everyone should be familiar with the rules by now," he said. "We're not after the dollar," he added, "we're after the cooperation of the students to abide by the rules of the University."

No Permits

The main violation of students has been the lack of parking permit. Permits are free of charge but do not guarantee the student a parking space. "They merely give the student the privilege of joining in the hunt," the Dean said. "At certain times of the day, there are no parking places."

About 2,000 more permits have been issued over last year. As of Tuesday, 7,481 parking permits had been issued. This, however, includes both day and night students and those students who drive two or three different cars.

Dean Pflasterer again warns that we could lose 150 parking places at the First Christian Church if students don't follow their regulations. Students are not to park in the alley nor on the east side of the building which is reserved for church functions.

Elmwood Violations

Many cars have been ticketed for parking violations in Elmwood Park. City police will issue fines of $3.00 for parking on the grass or on the wrong side of the street. Parking is permitted only along one side.

"The situation has improved this week," Dean Pflasterer said. "While we do have a definite parking problem, the situation will ease as the weeks pass."

Univ. Studies Dept. Grows

Fall 1965, marks the fourth year of a growing program at Omaha University. The program—University Studies—was designed for the "student who doesn't have a firmly fixed goal."

Director Charles Harkness added that this "applies to a much greater number of students than will admit it."

The two-year orientation program tries to overcome the academic deficiencies of students attending OU.

Mr. Harkness estimated that over 800 students are enrolled in the program this fall. This is a four-fold increase since the fall of 1962.

A committee of faculty members from each undergraduate college ran the program during its first year. At that time it had an enrollment of 200.

Mr. Harkness joined the program full-time the next fall. The faculty committee was then dissolved. Second-year enrollment rose to 500. Harkness attributes this mainly to second-year returnees.

Last fall the program grew to 650 students. Two assistants were added. Mrs. Phyllis Miller began working full-time. R. R. Butler has helped the program part-time.

Mr. Harkness and his two assistants are continuing their work with the growing program. He attributes the growth of University Studies to better counseling, better understanding on the part of the faculty and a greater overall emphasis on higher education.

"People who, 10 years ago, would not have considered going to college, are attending today," he concluded. He believes it is up to the University Studies program to assist them in their college career.

Official Notice

All students planning to attend medical school in the fall of 1966 should pick up their MCAT booklet and contact Dr. D. N. Marquardt relative to their medical school applications by next Monday. His office is Adm. 435.

"Bus Stop" Set For Oct. 21-23

The play "Bus Stop," by William Inge, is scheduled to be presented by the University of Omaha drama students at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October 21, 22 and 23.

The romantic comedy will consist of three acts. The characters are: Elma, portrayed by Kris Waara; Grace, by Nina Bieda; Will, by Larry French; Cherie, by Barbara Kucera; Dr. Lyman, by Bob Lane; Carl, by Gary Wallace; Virge, by Jack Gatewood and Bo played by Jim Phillips.

Assistant instructor of the O. U. Theater Department and chief coordinator of the play is the director, Mr. Allan Longacre. Assistant Director is Gregg Lolo and Stage Manager, Tom Colon.

Art Exhibit To Honor Traywick

An art exhibit will open Monday in the Milo Bail Student Center commemorating the inauguration of Dr. Leland E. Traywick.

The "Collectors Selection" exhibit which runs through October 26, will feature artists including Pablo Picasso, Mauricio Lasansky, Darrell Austin, Ben Shahn, Ralph Blakelock and George Grosz.

The hours for the exhibition are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays. Leonard Thiessen, Omaha World-Herald art critic, will speak at the opening which will last from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is invited.

150 Pints Set As Blood Drive Goal

The Arnold Air Society wants your blood—and is willing to give trophies for it.

A goal of 150 pints has been set for the drive, said AAS spokesman Cdt. Capt. Jeffrey Ratliff. The drive is being sponsored by the Earl S. Hoag Squadron of the Arnold Air Society.

One trophy will be given to the organization that has the largest percentage of its membership donating blood. Two other trophies will be presented to the organizations that have the largest number of donors.

Registration for the drive starts today and ends next Wednesday. Hours to register are from 8 a.m. till 3 p.m. in the Student Center. The donation itself will take place from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, October 7. Coffee and rolls will be served.

'Cutest Pan, Ugliest Man' Earn Dollars For UCS

This is Colleen, the 1966 UCS poster girl.

This year's goal of $2,462,575, four per cent more than last year, will benefit 35 agencies in the greater Omaha area.

Omaha University takes part with its annual Cutest Pan—Ugliest Man drive. The dual election is based on a "penny per vote" idea. The sorority collecting the most money wins the title of Cutest Pan for its representative.

The fraternity representative claims the Ugliest Man tag.

But OU's cutest pan candidates have a tough struggle in winning the title from Colleen, the UCS Cutest Pan.

Editorial Voice

"As cities go, Omaha is a prosperous place; its facilities are growing, its businesses thriving . . . its people secure.

"Yet many citizens don't share the community's good fortune. They may be sick, or handicapped, emotionally troubled, or just temporarily out of work. But they need help.

"And help is available here because the community plans for human emergencies through UCS and its 29 "people-care" agencies.

"Altogether these agencies provide nearly 60 separate services for people in need. With our help, UCS can be the difference between a hungry, frightened child and a happy one . . . a broken family and a stable home . . . a homeless old person and a secure one . . . even life and death through an agency like the Red Cross Blood Center.

"In short, UCS does everything you would do individually if you could. And it needs your support.

"Happiness is a Red Feather. UCS.

"Your one gift to UCS works all year long in Omaha meeting human needs where they are."

The above editorial is reprinted from the Editor's News and Bulletin Kit distributed by the 1965 Red Feather-Red Cross drive.

Shizuoka Guests Attend OU Tea

Omaha University was host to 30 residents of Omaha's sister city, Shizuoka, Japan last Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the Milo Bail Student Center Ballroom.

Dean William Utley, head of the College of Adult Education and President Traywick initiated the plan to honor the guests when it was first learned the group would be visiting Omaha from Sept. 27 through the 30th.

The group is staying in Omaha in co-operation with the Omaha Sister City Association, Inc.

Inauguration Festival Set

Dr. Leland E. Traywick will be inaugurated president of the University of Omaha Friday, October 15.

Representatives from colleges and universities across the country have been invited to the ceremonies.

Launching the inauguration ceremonies will be an October 14th dinner for Nebraska College leaders.

The inaugural convocation will take place at 2 p.m. in the University Stadium, followed by a reception in the Student Center.

Since OU's Homecoming falls on the same weekend, events will be combined. The campus mall will be the scene of the annual Homecoming rally and Council Fire at 5 p.m. Highlight of this event will be the crowning of the 1965 Homecoming Princess. The Homecoming-Inaugural dance will be held at 9 p.m. at Peony Park.

Listen to OU football games on KOWH-FM, 94.1 on the dial.

Dr. Ruetz Initiates New O.U. Opera Workshop

By Dan Novotny

One of the new faces seen on campus this semester belongs to Dr. Robert G. Ruetz.

Dr. Ruetz, who received his doctorate in music from Indiana University, will teach the first opera workshop class to be held at the University of Omaha.

"It takes a tremendous amount of planning to stage a full-scale opera," said Dr. Ruetz. The likelihood of such a performance at the University does not exist until about 1967, he said.

Some of the first yields from the workshop will feature scenes, ensembles or arias from various works which will be sung in their original vernacular, he said.

"I foresee many things happening from this workshop," he said, "even the possibility of a traveling group." Dr. Ruetz said, however, that he is primarily concerned with developing solo singers.

Just before coming to the OU campus, Dr. Ruetz taught at Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield, Mo. His prior achievements include being the vice-president of Notre Dame Glee Club and chorus master of the Tulsa Opera Company in Tulsa, Okla., besides numerous appearances in operas and as a tenor soloist.

In addition to guiding OU's operatic development, Dr. Ruetz is teaching an ear training and sight singing class and giving private instruction.

Prof. Keeps On The Go

Richard D. Marvel spends 12 to 16 hours every day on his hobby. What is his hobby?—Well its politics and teaching.

Marvel

Currently serving his sixth term as a State Senator, Richard D. Marvel doubles his work load by teaching 12 credit hours at Omaha University.

This dual role first began for the senator in 1963, when he began to teach a night course. He became a full time staff member last year.

"I spend two hours or more traveling each day," commented the senator. "I have an office in Lincoln, and an office at OU, and my permanent address is in Hastings."

"I've never missed a class yet," he said, "although I must admit that those 7:30 classes are a little tough."

A graduate of Hastings college, Marvel is currently working on his PhD. dissertation at the University of Nebraska. His dissertation is on the Nebraska legislature.

The senator's political career began when he returned from world War II and was elected Commander of the American Legion in 1946. He served as a delegate to the National Republican convention in 1948.

He was elected to the legislature in 1950 and retired after two terms. He then served as County Republican chairman for four years. He again ran for the legislature and has been running ever since.

He has served as chairman of the education committee for one term and chairman of the committee on budgeting for three terms.

Marvel is the representative of Adams County, the only county in the state with an average population of approximately 29,000 people.

He and his wife Oline have two children. Ann is a tenth grader in Hastings, and her brother Douglas is a junior in pre-med at Michigan State.

Fund May Fold After $170 Loss

The Alumni Association emergency loan fund may soon become a thing of the past.

Executive secretary of the association, Warren Wittekind, announced that no loans will be made until the association can reach a decision on future action. It has currently been tabled for further review.

Since its beginning, in the fall of 1963, the association has lost $170 of its $300 revolving loan fund. No effort was made by 39 students to repay the loans taken out.

In one case, a student used a fake ID card with the name John E. Hoover. The address and phone number listed was the police station.

Approximately half of the delinquent debtors are drop-outs. There is no way to make those still enrolled repay their loans.

Since the Alumni association is separated from the school as an organization, it has no control over holding up grades, or preventing class attendance.

There are only 14 days left to get a date for Homecoming.

Research Jobs Offered Grads

Work is always available for psychology graduate students advises Dr. William Jaynes, psychology dept. head.

He continually has inquiries seeking students doing graduate work who wish to do part time psychology or research work while continuing their education.

Working in the field for pay while continuing in education is often an encouragement to obtain an advanced degree. Psychology majors should consider this before shutting the door on their college career.

Alums Chosen 'Outstanding'

This year five University of Omaha alumnae have been selected for inclusion in the 1965 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

The women selected are Mrs. Marcia W. Andrew, Omaha Symphony orchestra, B.S., 1959; Mrs. Lyle M. Bruere, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, B.S., 1950; Miss Sharon Erdkamp, State Department, Washington, D.C., B.A., 1955; Marilou Thibault, Meredith WOW, B.S., 1964 and Mrs. Peggy M. Walton, chemist, Washington, D.C., B.A., 1955.

Each year local women's clubs throughout the nation nominate outstanding women for the book. Those nominated are selected by the Board of Advisory Editors.

The women above are among some 6,000 young women between the ages of 21 and 36. They have been selected for outstanding civic or professional endeavors.

Guidelines for selections include unselfish service to others, charitable activities, community service, professional excellence, business advancement and civic and professional recognition.

Two Omaha U Grads Serve Peace Corps

Jamaica and West Africa were recent destinations of Gale Oberg and Donald Roll, new members of the Peace Corps and graduates of the University of Omaha.

Miss Oberg, a 1965 graduate of O.U. with a bachelor of arts degree in geography, is now an instructor in the Corps' educational program and, at the same time, is assisting in community development projects in Jamaica.

Roll is serving as museum curator for the Sierra Leone Museum in Freetown, Sierra Leone, West Africa. He graduated from the university in 1964 with a bachelor of science degree in education.

Tidbits From The Butcher Shop

Everyone will get a chance to win some big prizes and have fun next Saturday night at the Omaha-Bradley game. The Rosenblatt Stadium tilt has been dubbed "Gateway Football Night," and will be sponsored by the school paper.

Interesting Item: Northern Illinois has in construction on its campus a 22,000 seat stadium to be ready early in November.

More Interesting: The entire Huskie freshman squad is on full grant-in-aid scholarships.

Even More Interesting: The school is dropping out of its conference and has applied for membership in the Mid-America loop with schools like Ohio U, Bowling Green, Kent State, etc.

And Most Interesting: They are dropping Omaha off their schedule next year.

Summary: Rots o' Ruck, Northern . . . it's been a gas.

Question: How does Omaha's pass defense resemble that used by the Green Bay Packers?

Answer: It doesn't . . .

Send your cards of condolence to dear old Washburn tomorrow. The defending CIC champs were trounced (41-14) by Kearney, tied (7-7) by Central Missouri last week and meet Fresno State out West tomorrow night. Fresno was the club that lost to the Colorado Buffaloes, 10-7, last Saturday at Boulder.

Other CIC clubs are faring well. Fort Hays is 2-0 with wins over Southwestern Oklahoma and Kearney. Pittsburg is 1-1, losing to Missouri Mines and beating Central Missouri. Emporia has not surprised anyone by dropping two straight. It looks like OU is going to have it out with Pitt and Hays for the title. Migration comes up October 30th to Topeka for the Washburn game. That one will be worth seeing. The Blues nipped OU, 19-12 last year on the way to the CIC crown.

While you are watching the gladiators perform tomorrow, be sure and take note of Omaha's fast rising defensive line. Two freshmen, Ed Jackson, a 220 pounder from Cincinnati, and big Carl Goodman, the 246 pound rookie from Central, were very impressive last week against NIU. Another Cincinnati, Rich Shuckman, is also being groomed as a star of the future. Team them up with soph Tom Hutchison, also of Cincinnati, and 255 pound Bill Jansen, another Cincinnati product, and you may see the finest defensive front in OU history before the season is through.

A meeting has been called for next Friday in the student center for all students interested in INTERCOLLEGIATE SWIMMING.

According to an athletic department spokesman the meeting is being held to find out how many students are interested in the program, and if there are any, what can be done to get competition underway. Watch this column next week for the time and place.

There are those that are yelling "Take the baseball field and make it into parking spaces." These people see this move as a simple solution to finding more of those highly elusive little areas in which to park their own little heap each morning when they get up too late or stay too long over their glass of prune juice.

The thing that very few of these individuals realize is that many more problems will be created by taking away the "baseball field." This little piece of land is used for the following purposes: Football practice, baseball practice, OU baseball games, several P.E. classes, a practice area for the band and Indians, and a sometime field for intramurals.

Take these people and try to put them elsewhere and your problems are just beginning. If the football team can't practice there, it means onto the stadium turf and that means no turf in very short time. Take it away from the baseball team and that means transporting the team miles away to practice. There's nothing like climbing into cars or onto a bus after a hot, sweaty workout, then having to travel long distances back to your showers at the campus.

And where will the P.E. classes hold outdoor activities? On the Administration Building lawn perhaps?

We hope that those who have control of this situation will think twice before ripping up valuable space in a hasty effort to solve a parking problem. That might rival the seemingly pointless move of tearing up classrooms for faculty offices and then putting the students in temporary "barracks" that have no more business as classrooms than does an outhouse.

There can be no mistake made here . . . it would have too many repercussions in too many areas.

Halfback Gerald Allen, who was held to the relatively low total of 38 yards in 12 carries by Northern Illinois, on the difference between Idaho State's and the Huskies defenders: "You could hit a Bengal defender and bounce off, but it's pretty hard to bounce or twist away from three or four tacklers."

Morningside Brings Veteran Crew To Meet Omaha Tomorrow At 2:00

by Mike Moran

Coach Dewey Halford brings Morningside College into town tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 for what just might be the bloodiest battle even seen at Omaha U Stadium. The game marks the first of three straight Indian home contests. Bradley visits next week for a Rosenblatt Stadium clash at night, then Pittsburg State comes to town October 16th for the CIC opener.

Omaha's humiliated legion, saddled with stiff necks from watching Northern Illinois passes last weekend, were driven and pushed this week by an angry Al Caniglia, who stated, "They are going to have to score four times to whip us this week."

Bad Memories

Caniglia remembers only too well what apathy and indifference can do against Morningside. Two years ago, his Indian squad was being touted for national honors. The Chiefs settled that with a resounding 33-25 upset in the opener that saw Omaha lead by 25-6 after three periods. Halford must remember that game also. His Iowans ran the OU ends and peppered the porous OU secondary at will in a fourth quarter that had OU fans in misery.

Last year, a stumbling Indian crew nipped the Chiefs at Sioux City, 13-12, when a last ditch aerial blitz fell short on the Omaha 13 yard line as the gun went off.

Gone is quarterback Larry White, who set Morningside passing records, but his ace receiver, Ken Hoogensen, a 5-9, 180 pound senior is back to haunt Omaha. The big Chief was one of the nation's top receivers last year with 66 grabs for 885 yards and five scores.

Also present in a veteran Morningside cast is the speedy backfield of Steve Ohi, Gary Beaubien and Andy Ness. The trio accounted for over half of the Chief ground game last season, with Ohi and Beaubien rushing for nearly five yards a crack in a 3-6 season.

The only rookie is quarterback Herb Larsen, a 190 pound sophomore. Larsen didn't see action last year but his fall drills have been impressive. He is listed as an adequate runner and an excellent passer.

The Chiefs are 1-1 on the season, beating McCalester, 31-6 and dropping a 37-14 decision at North Dakota U last Saturday. OU scout Carl Meyers reported that Morningside committed frequent fumbles that cost them three scores from within the ten.

In this one, nothing in the past counts . . . Omaha and Morningside like to go at it tooth and nail. It will be a dandy, but look for Omaha to come out on top, 20-12.

Ho-Hum, It's The Same Old Story As Huskies Win 28-13

By Mike Moran

Gritty Northern Illinois evened Omaha's mark at 1-1 last Saturday with a stinging 28-13 upset before 8,105 fans at DeKalb, Illinois.

Huskie quarterback Ron Christian completed 19 of 36 passes for 213 yards and three touchdowns as a befuddled and non-aggressive Omaha secondary ran for cover.

It was sweet revenge for Christian and the Huskies, who lost a 26-20 heartbreaker last year at Omaha. It also marked the third win in four tries for NIU since the series was resumed in 1962. Next year, the two teams do not meet.

Bad Start

Things got off to a bad start for Omaha. Fullback Bill Dodd was the victim of a missed block on the first play from scrimmage and a Huskie end slammed into him, causing a fumble. Three plays later from the Omaha ten, Christian rolled in with the first score to make it 7-0.

OU stormed 70 yards to make it 7-6, Dodd capping the drive with a burst from the three. Passes to Rick Davis and Jimmy Jones set up the first OU tally. The Huskies used a piling penalty as a spring board to march right back for another score two minutes later. OU defensive back Cal McGruder waved his arms frantically as loping Jack Frost hauled in a 35 yard toss from Christian for the score.

Northern made it 21-6 minutes into the second period as little Gerry Sandberg caught Harold Lenz asleep at the switch for a 29-yard scoring toss from Christian's hot right arm.

No Mustard

OU marched out of the dressing room to score again in an Indian dominated third quarter. Marlin Briscoe's 13 yard flip to Jones made it 21-13 as George Blankenship added the point from placement.

That was where the honeymoon ended for Omaha as the Huskies trooped right down for another score to put the game out of reach at 28-13 just into the fourth period.

So ineffective was the OU defense that the usually air-minded Huskies rolled up 208 yards on the ground for a whopping 421 yards in total offense. The week before, they had netted only 48 yards rushing against Whitewater State in a 28-14 win.

Big fullback Leigh Gilbert, a patsy the week before, plowed for 85 yards against the Indians. Arnie Vesely netted 65 and Christian, who got braver as the game went on, ran for 51 yards in nine carries.

Omaha's vaunted ground game managed only 84 yards. Little All-American Gerry Allen found his way for 38 yards through the Huskies hordes while Dodd also got 38. Briscoe, who must have thought "Scrambler" referred to his cooking habits, netted only 8 yards.

Flips Effective

Briscoe redeemed himself with an effective passing show that saw him complete 19 of 35 for 127 yards. His chief target was Jones with good help from suddenly blossoming Don Crum, a boy who may be the best receiver on the squad.

Practice Teachers Fill 200 Classrooms

This semester there will be about 200 student teachers from the University of Omaha practice teaching in schools in Omaha and the surrounding area.

Dr. Paul C. Kennedy, head of the secondary education department, said that there will be about 80 secondary student teachers in the Omaha schools and about 20 in schools outside of Omaha.

Dr. Hollie Bethel, head of the elementary education department, said that there will be about 90 elementary student teachers practice teaching in schools in Omaha, District 66, and Council Bluffs.

Dr. Kennedy said that the largest concentration of secondary student teachers can be found in the social studies and English areas. He said that the number of student teachers in foreign languages and math is higher than usual, and that he hopes this trend continues.

Dr. Bethel said that there are three male elementary student teachers this semester, and that there is a need for qualified men in elementary education.

Snoopy Mascots O.U. Arnold Air

Snoopy, the notorious cartoon character, has been officially adopted as the mascot of Arnold Air Society of the University of Omaha.

OU Air Force ROTC cadets recently asked the World-Herald to help them reach Charles Schulz, creator of "Peanuts," to get permission to make Snoopy their mascot. Mr. Schulz replied he was flattered with the idea, so the society and members of Angels Flight, the auxiliary, are making plans to use Snoopy at their functions.

SUPPORT OUR ADVERTISERS

The traditional performance of marching feet and musical excellence will come alive again this Saturday for the Band Day football game on the OU Field.

The Omaha University Band under the direction of Jack Malik will give a pre-game showing starting at 1:40 p.m. At the half-time of the Morningside engagement, nearly one thousand area high school musicians will combine their talents with those of the OU marchers to stage a precision stepping exhibition climaxing in the shaping of a musical clef.

Indiannes, the all-girl marching unit, and twirlers are to be featured, too.

According to Mr. Malik, the music of the afternoon will characterize the spirit and the sounds of a band.

A luncheon and dance are scheduled for the high school bandsmen in the Milo Bail Student Center after the half-time break.

Grad Program Boosts Reading

Clinical services combined with a graduate training program in teaching remedial reading are new aims of the Department of Special Education at the University of Omaha.

Dr. Donald C. Cushenbery, former head of the reading laboratory at OU, is now helping to prepare 25 persons as future reading instructors. His department joins several others in sponsoring training for teachers of the deaf, the mentally retarded and of speech correction.

Reading improvement training programs originated, according to Dr. Cushenbery, because "the average classroom teacher is not equipped for helping children with reading problems. Thus, there is a need for trained teachers to take care of these children."

Learning through actual practice forms the core of OU's program for the students, all of whom hold a bachelor of science degree in either elementary or secondary education. They work with children from area schools, helping to iron out various reading problems. "Such reading clients," Dr. Cushenbery emphasized, "are referred to the clinic by teachers who feel they need reading help. A few children are selected for continuing help and these are the clients the graduate students work with."

Procedures used by the graduate students to help their clients vary according to each child's ability. But, a basic process includes testing and evaluation of a child's reading strengths and limitations. At the same time, the child's ability to discuss reading matter is discerned. Appropriate materials to overcome his individual problems are then selected.

Physics Prof. Is Hobbyist

Professor John McMillan, head of the physics department, has always been interested in science.

After working for five years as an industrial research chemist, his study in physical chemistry lead him to his present work in physics.

This year, Mr. McMillan is instructing classes in technical physics, engineering and geology.

Previously, he has been a teacher in high school, vocational school and industry. This, together with his college teaching adds up to about 25 years—or as he puts it, "too many years to be good for me!"

"I have too many hobbies," he said. He has done some stamp collecting, mineral and rock collecting, and tried his hand at magic.

The professor attended Central High School in Omaha. Here, he first met his wife in a Latin class. "She was the better student." He again met her at the University of Nebraska. "I became interested," he said, "when I couldn't beat her in a single game of ping-pong."

Mrs. McMillan, who has a masters degree in child psychology, previously worked in Omaha University's child study center. She is now an elementary principal.

Professor McMillan's pet peeve toward his students is when someone asks a question which he has just answered.

"It's deflating to one's ego," he said.

Greeks Harmonize At Sig Ep Sing; 'Gay Nineties' Atmosphere Prevails

A gay Nineties theme and A-Go-Go girls will highlight this year's Sig Ep Sing scheduled tonight at the Carter Lake Club.

Song competition among Greek groups and dancing are the two main functions of the event. It is sponsored annually by Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Festivities start at 9 p.m. with an hour of dancing to the Echoes combo. At 10 p.m. sororities and fraternities begin song competition. A trophy will be awarded to both a first place sorority and fraternity, according to the decision of a panel of judges. The judges have been chosen by Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Sorority competition will be to the tune of "Crazy Rhythm." Fraternities match vocal cords on "The Band Played On." Both the fraternities and sororities will be allowed a warm-up song.

While groups are going from their seats in the audience to the stage, entertainment will be provided by dancers in gold cages on stage. Each of the four sororities will nominate a candidate for "A-Go-Go Girl." She will be chosen by a panel of spectating Sig Eps.

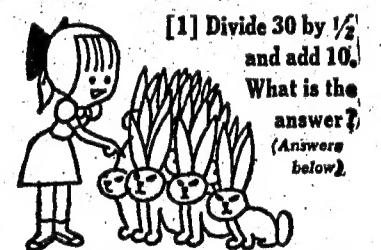

After song competition, dancing will continue until midnight.

But daddy-it's absolutely vital!

I mean positively. Everybody—just everybody's got one! Oh daddy, you're absolutely medieval. I mean, I could've just died when Janie and Marcy and Deborah and Jean—and even that kookie little Katie—said their fathers had set one up for them—just as a regular part of getting ready for college. What was I supposed to say—'Well, girls, you know my father's a nasty old ogre?' Really! It was so humiliating! Yes, daddy. I know you've got my best interests at heart—but look at it this way. You're supposed to be an adult and responsible and all that when you're a college student, right? I mean, it's the first time you're really on your own, right? Well, dad, how can a girl be on her own without her very own personal checking account? You will? Oh daddy, I knew you'd understand! Yes, I'll meet you at the U.S. National tomorrow noon. You're just the greatest, that's all! Just think, with my very own checking account, I'll be independent. Why of course, it is your money. But daddy, don't you see—that's what makes a girl feel so—so free!
